It is sufficient for them to know that the assent of the United States, although often invoked, has never been yielded to any such system of police on the seas. Without golag at large into the questions heretofore involved as to the right of independent nations, on that common highway of the world, the open sea, the committee nevertheless deem this a fit occasion to declare the principles along by the United States as regulating the use of the open or high seas in time of peace, and from which are derived rights to the people of the United States admitting of no restraint or qualification, and to be maintained at whatever cost.

There is no right of visitation, far less of nearch, to be exercised in time of peace by any foreign Power, under any pretext, and such as the proposed this system was the first Keeper who proposed this system and held it under it; true, it was the first Keeper who proposed this system was the first Keeper who proposed this system and held it under it; true, it was the first Keeper who proposed this system and held it under it; true, it was the first Keeper who proposed this system and held it under it; true, it was the first Keeper who proposed this system and held it under it; true, it was the first Keeper who proposed this system and held it under it; true, it was the first Keeper who proposed this system and the list of the l of course the correlative right to arrest and detain the vessel until the visitation is effected.

The committee find these principles admitted and enforced by the opinions and the decisions of and enforced by the opinions and the decisions of the received by the opinions are received by the opinions and the decisions of the received by the opinions are received by the opinions ar the most eminent judicial anthorities both in this country and in Great Britain. George R. McKee.

Dur eaudidate for Clerk of the Court of Ap peals has thus far been eminently successful in his canvass, which he has conducted with all the ability and skill which was or could have been expected by his friends. He has traversed our blue grass valleys, and climbed the rugged mountains of castern Kentucky, and is now bending his way towards the tobacco plantations of the Green river and the barrens of the southern portions of the State. Everywhere he has been greeted with hearty welcomes, and everywhere that he has spoken his voice has cheered his friends to do their utmost in the contest for vic tory and has filled his opponents with dismay. His popularity in the mountain counties, which a cardial support. He has gone forth as the aposile of true and eternal principles of government and liberty, and obedient to his summons the claus have rallied to his assistance, and will be martialed in all their strength in the coming August. Thus far all i well Our champion is doing battle most manfully, and encouraged by his example the Americans of the State intend to make one more desperate struggle for the maintainance of their principles, and in order to free Kenmeky from the yoke of those who have sought to lead her captive, bound in chains to the chariot wheels of triumphant Democracy.

But amidst the acelamations and cheering voices of friends Mr. McKee has not escaped without detraction. First of all, a furious assault was made upon him on account of his per sonal appearance, and because of his broad Kentucky pronunciation. It was even declared by some of the most eager in the fray that no man who looked like George R. McKee, or who said whar, was fit to be Clerk of the Court of Apforego such arguments and such a system of at-

The second charge is, that McKee is not comcompetent to discharge the duties of the office, and if true, this would be the most serious charge which could possibly be brought against him in connection with the race; it ought to counterbalance all other considerations. But the charge is not true; besides, the Democracy themselves set the example of disregarding the qualifications or character of their candidates, the only qualification which hey demand being an unimpeached record of devotion to Democratic principles. George R. McKee was raised in, and is familiar with all the details of the business conconnected with, a Circuit Court Clerk's Office .-He wrote in an office of this kind for many years, and is one of the best Clerks in the State. and so proved himself when he acted as deputy. He has certificates of qualification for the office. issued under both the old and the new Constitution. He has also a certificate of qualification as Circuit Court Clerk, from a Judge in Indiana, who rigidly examined him. Besides being one of the best jury and civil lawyers in the State, Mr. McKee served with distinction and great credit to himself on the Beneh, as Circuit Court Judge. He has for years had a large practice in the Court of Appeals and has thus become familliarly acquainted with the business of that Court. If these facts are not sufficient guaranty of his capacity to fill the office, what guaranty has R. R. Revill, of whom the most that can be said is that he is a good County Court Clerk. The duties of a County Court Clerk have but little to do with the Court of Appeals, while those of Circuit Court Cherk are intimutely connected with that Court. As far as acquaintance with the mere manual and practical part of the business of the office of the Clerk of the Court of Appeals is concerned, Mr McKee is fully the equal of Revill, if, in leed, he is not his superior; and in point of intellect, general inteligence, native capacity, and head ability, no one will compare

No satish d with these charges, and not content that the candidates should go before the peo ple either upon their own merits, or upon the platforms and political actions of the parties to which they belong, Democratic editors have at last resorted to their accustomed practice of garbling and misrepresenting the records of their opponents. In order to counteract the effect which is being produced all over the State by the able manner in which McKee attacks the Demo-McKee was guilty of the same misdemeanor,

Hodges had been previously paid, and that nevertheless McKee voted for Hodges; thus far the The Author and Principle of the Kansas charge was entirely true. But if these Democratic editors are really anxious that the people as public journalists to tell the whole truth to the before Kansas is admitted her people ought that, at the same time that Tauner made his bid, to udmit her; at the same time, I am not so wedllodges offered to do the printing for 25 per cent. less than he had previously received tor it; that is, for five per cent. less than Tanner offered to do it at; that a committee composed of one Dem ocrat and one Whig, both practical printers, then at least that the privilege and opportunity of bids made by both Tanner and Hodges, and that question that bill of prices was at a lower rate than Tanner's bid; that George R. McKee voted for Col. Hodges upon this bill of prices; and that the in coming State Printer was elected upon the same bill. We think that these facts will put quite a different aspect upon the case, and these facts it has been the especial business and duty of Democratic papers to keep from their readers, leaving them undisabused of the false charge which they dare not now reiterate. The only fair construction which could be placed upon the language used by Democratic organs in referring to this matter was, that McKee had voted for Hodges upon a hill of prices which specified a higher rate for the printing that Tanner agreed to it at; but now that it has been clearly proved that the bill was less than the rates specified by Tanner, one of the Democratic organs, which was foremost in misrepresenting McKee, tries to wriggle out of the dileman in which it has been placed, by arguing that, as the aves and nays upon the bill of prices upon which Hodges was elected are no1 recorded, it is very probable that McKee did'nt vote for that bill of prices! Was ever self stultification more complete? First they swear that Mc Kee voted for a bill which was higher than the rates specified by Tanner; but when they find that the bill was lower than the rates named by Tan ner, they turn round and declare that McKee voted against the bill. But all this dodging, and wrig gling, and twisting will avail them nothing .-With the journals before them, with the respective letters and bids of Hodges and Tanuer on opposite pages, these journals have maliciously and deliberately misrepresented McKee's record, with the evil design of deceiving and betraving their too credulous readers and of placing Mckee in a false position before them. Now, we do not expect that this matter will cut much figure in the canvass or operate upon many voters, one way or the other. But the object of introducing it in this article is to make this point: that any one was ever great, is steadily on the increase, and who will deliberately, and wilfully, and impuadvices from those quarters assure us that the dently pervert the truth, and endeavor to deceive people will come out from among their glens the people, as the Democratic editors have in and fastnesses and will give him a hearty and this respect, is utterly unworthy of credit or be lief in any statement he may make. Some edi tors seem to think that it is their especial duty to cover up the truth, when if the truth were known it would operate to the disadvantage of their party, to tell falsehoods by insinuations if not directly, when it is necessary to torture the truth to injure an adversary or blacken his reputation-has ever been opposed to popular education has fallen still born to the ground. We advise his opponents to search a little further in his record, as this portion will avail them nothing. They have recklessly published a speech of his, which emphatically contradicts the very charges they wish to prove by it. Even at that early day George was put in a great rage at the bare idea that he was an opponent of general education, and he abused Mr. Prentice most intemperately peals. We almost thought for a time that this for preferring such a charge against him. He peals. We almost thought for a time that this would be the issue of the canvass; but even article of one who knew his views, which declared that he was a zealous advocate of the causof popular education, and that, although oppos ed to the particular system of Common Schools then endeavored to be carried on, he would not be opposed but would be a friend to any fair and practicable system which could be de vised. After trying it for years the people of Kentucky have condemned and repudinted the old system to which Mckee was opposed, and have adopted a new one, of which there is in the State no stauncher advocate than George R. McKee. McKee's constituents, the sturdy peo ple of Garrard, instructed him to vote for the epeal of the old system, but they are largely in favor of the new onc. Dr. R. J. Breckinridge, the founder of the new system, pronounced the old system to be a total and ludicrous failure We have already given facts showing that it had accomplished nothing when McKee voted to repeal it, on the ground that it was unequal burdensome, and impracticable, and it is hardly worth while to repeat them since they are not denied The fact is, there was no system of Common Schools at the time George R. McKee introduced the resolution which has been so much harped upon, unless the teaching of about 4,000 children, -1,600 of whom were from the city of Louis ville, and the rest from a few cities and towns,for three months in the year, can be called a system of Common Schools.

Compromise Bill.

In a speech of Hon. Wm. M. English, of Indiana, on the Kunsas Compromise bill, he said: should know the whole truth, and it is their duty conclusion, Mr. Chairman, I repeat, that I think people, why did they not go on to state the fact ratify, or at least have a fair opportunity to rote upon the Constitution under which it is proposed secured; which is the making of the Constitution ut an early day conform to the public will, or fixed upon a bill of prices, after consulting the making it be secured to the people beyond all question. Less than this would not satisfy the expectations of my constituents, and would not petray their wishes for any earthly considerations. If, on the other hand, all reasonable com promises are voted down, and I am brought to vote won the noked an unqualified admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution, I distinctly de clare that I CAN NOT, IN CONSCIENCE, VOTE FOR

He made the motion to accede to the request of the Senate, made under unusual circum stances, for a committee of Conference upon the disagreeing votes between the two Houses, under strong sense of duty, as a courtesy due from one branch of the legislative department to the other, and with some hope that some intermediate or middle ground might be found up on which both Houses could stand, and their disagreements be healed. As he expressed it at the time he made the aution to grant the conference, no harm could possibly grow out of it, and good now that it has been clearly proved that the bill might result. The conference was granted, and he of prices upon which McKee voted for Hodges was appointed Chairman of the committee on the part of the House. As the Senate had asked for he conference, the managers on behalf of that branch of Congress were informed by Mr. E. that propositions for a compromise must first come from them. If they had none to offer the managers on the part of the House had none, and the conference would immediately terminate. The managers on the part of the Senate made severul propositions, none of which, however, were acceptable to the members on behalf of the House. The Senate committee their asked the members from the House it they had any compromise to offer, to which Mr. E. replied that he had none prepared, but he had a plan in his mind, based, however, upon the principle of a sub mission of the question of admission under the Le compton Constitution and an amended ordinance to nttee thought it worth while he would prepare t, and submit it to them at their next meeting. They told him to do so. This is the inside history of the origin of the great Kansas Compromise measure which has just been consummated in the Congress of the United States. The houor great triumph in a great measure belongs to

Mr. English. This extract is cut from a brief sketch of the life of Mr. English, now affort, and the materials of which were douatless furnished by himself. By it, it appears that the conference report was ot originated or concected by any Southern men on either the Senate or House committee; but that, after exhausting all efforts to get the com mittee to agree to some plan on their ideas of what was due to the South, they gave up in despair and asked the Douglas Northern men on committee for their suggestions. Then, Mr. English, the leading Douglasite, brought forward the plan which the committee agreed to, and which in the opinion of its author, came fully up to his sine qua non, that he was wedded to no particular plan of submitting the constitution to a vote, "provided the substance was secured."

Thus the public will see that the kansas Conference bill was a Northern and not a Southern reasure, the production of a Douglas and not a Buchanan Democrat, and brought forward at But for one, we would not trust the political preast after Southern men had exhausted all their varieator or falsifier in any capacity, either in pubown plans, by one who was determined for no 'earth consideration" to accept of any plan that did not secure the substance of submission. And yet so infatnated are some of our people-no, not IT The charge that George R. McKee is or people, some of our politicians—that they now say this report is better than the Senate bill

Strange, that a determined, clear headed Doug ashe, should strike at such an excellent Sonther plan, when all our Southern talent could not see t, till it become a law!
